EUTOPIA Multilingualism & Diversity Student Conference
The Future of Multilingualism in a Global World
(Wednesday 9 July 2025, online)

The global order is rapidly changing: we are seeing increased global connectedness, through migration, trade and cultural interactions, and, at the same time the rise of nationalism and a backlash against diversity. Equally, the impact of technology on our multicultural society put us at a crossroads. How can we build a genuinely inclusive world that delivers sustainable and equitable outcomes for all? What does it mean to be multilingual in an increasingly tech-dependent society? It is now more imperative than ever that researchers urgently respond to these challenges.

As members of the EUTOPIA Connected Learning Community 'Multilingualism and Diversity', we invite students from all levels to share their research on multilingualism and diversity at an online multilingual conference.

We invite submissions for 15-20 min presentations on topics related, but not limited to:

Language, Science & Technology

- Multilingualism & psychology
- Impact of AI-based language tools
- Future of language learning and translation

Language & Politics

- Language, imperialism and decolonization
- Language, nationhood and diplomacy
- Multilingualism and human rights

Language, Identity & Culture

- Language variations and non-standard forms
- Endangered languages and language conservation
- Language, migration and exile

Why participate?

- Share your research in a supportive environment
- Make global connections and develop intercultural skills
- Learn more about EUTOPIA, an alliance of 10 European universities and 6 Global Partners
- Benefit from interdisciplinary perspectives on multilingualism and diversity
- As this is a multilingual conference, you will be free to use your preferred language for your presentation but at least one component (oral presentation or slides) should be in English (e.g. you can present in Spanish with slides in English or vice-versa).
- Each presenter will receive a EUTOPIA certificate of participation after the conference.

To submit your proposal, please send a 250-word abstract in English (including 3-5 keywords) and a separate short bio to eutopia.multilingualismconference@mail.com by 30 April 2025.

For any enquiries, please contact: eutopia.multilingualismconference@mail.com.
